EDMUND SCHEUER—EIGHTY YEARS YOUNG

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

A Jew faithful to his religion, to the essence of his religion—doing justly, loving mercy and walking humbly with God. A Canadian loyal and devoted to the country of his adoption. A citizen, public-spirited, fearless and ready to serve. A merchant of spotless integrity and reputation. A leader in all philanthropic work. A champion of the needy and downtrodden. A friend of the finest and best in many countries. A teacher of little children, teaching them about God and morals. An indefatigable and conscientious worker. An author of text-books. A pioneer of liberal Judaism in Canada. A lover of the synagogue. A Jew living Israel's mission—an example to his co-religionists and his fellow-citizens. Such is Edmund Scheuer, eighty years young this coming Sunday—the pride of Toronto Jewry. Ad meah veesrim shanah.

SCHWARTZBARD IS NOT ON TRIAL

For the assassination of Simon Petlura, a former general of the Ukrainian armies, who was responsible for many Jewish pogroms, Solomon Schwartzbard is being tried in Paris. Schwartzbard slew Petlura as revenge for the anti-Jewish massacres in the Ukraine. Acts of terrorism are always to be deprecated, and this one is no exception to the rule. Nothing is accomplished by slaying one pogrom leader as long as the pogrom spirit lives. Meeting violence by counter-violence leads nowhere. Schwartzbard did not help the Jewish cause by his action.

But yet we hope that Schwartzbard will be acquitted. One can understand how these constant and continuous tales of brutal massacre obsessed his mind, how for months he brooded and planned to avenge the innocent victims and how eventually with the madness of fanaticism he murdered the murderer of many Jews. The amazing thing is not that Schwartzbard assassinated Petlura, but that Jewish refugees in Paris refrained so long from violence against those who raped and butchered their kin.

Schwartzbard is not on trial. The pogroms of Denikin, Kolchak and Petlura are on trial. The interest of the court is less in the fate of a fanatic Jewish watch-maker, and more in the atrocities which the Russian counter-revolutionists, the heirs of czaristic methods, perpetrated. Petlura's friends in defending him are defending themselves, for they were a party to his crimes. They stand condemned before the bar of enlightened opinion. At last the world is hearing of the terrible ordeal inflicted on the Jews of Russia after the revolution by the monarchists. And not Schwartzbard, but Petlura and his associates are on trial.

No court can find Schwartzbard guilty of murder, but his trial will reveal to the world the blood-stained hands and brutalized souls of those who butchered the thousands of broken, innocent and defenceless men, women and children.

HUNGARY REPEALS "NUMERUS CLAUSUS"

Word has come from Hungary that the Hungarian Government has decided to cancel the "numerus clausus" restrictions against Jewish students in certain faculties at Hungarian universities. The faculties of jurisprudence and philosophy will still be guarded against excessive Jewish attendance.

The magnanimity of the Hungarian Government may be explained by the fact that the proportion of Jewish students in the now unrestricted courses has always been rather small. The medical and scientific careers in Hungary have not offered Jewish young men many opportunities. And the lack of opportunities has been as great a deterrent to Jewish enrollment as the "numerus clausus" restrictions. The bulk of the Jewish youth have flocked to the faculties of philosophy and jurisprudence which are the equivalent of our arts faculties, where they could at least get a good liberal education. The Jewish young people who are eager for education will find the doors of the universities still barred against them.

THE SCHWARTZBARD TRIAL

The trial of Sholom Schwartzbard for the assassination of Petlura which is now taking place in Paris, has resolved itself into an indictment of the murdered man and his atrocities before the jury of public opinion.

Schwartzbard is a Russian Jewish young man whose parents and relatives were all murdered in the pogroms which marked the period of the ascendency of Petlura in Ukrainia. Schwartzbard had come to France as a very young man. During the war he had enlisted in the Foreign Legion, was wounded and won decorations and medals. The outrages perpetrated by Petlura and his hordes against the Jewish population of Ukrainia after the war preyed on his mind. Thirteen members of his own family were killed. He took it into his head to avenge these crimes. When he got his chance he shot Petlura down.

At the trial details are being recited of the horrors which the Jewish population underwent at the hands of the Ukrainian soldiery. The prosecution defending Petlura does not attempt to deny the stories of the massacres. It merely seeks to deny Petlura's connection with them.

There is no doubt that Petlura's responsibility for the crimes will be established. The court may find that Schwartzbard as an individual was or was not justified in taking the life of Petlura as an act of vengeance. But it will be made clear to the world that the Jewish people as a whole has been heinously sinned against. And the Ukrainian people will have a good deal to atone for, that the life of Petlura could not expiate.

DR. CHAYIM SPIWAK

Dr. Chayim Spiwak, who passed away last week in Denver, was an interesting and rare personality. Of him it may truly be said that he combined in his make-up the qualities of character and scholarship which form the essentials of the old Jewish conception of greatness in man.

Dr. Spiwak was many-sided. He was a scientist ranking very

COMMENTARIES

By Rabbi Harry J. Stern, of Montreal
Associate Contributing Editor

"AN OUTRAGE AGAINST GOD AND RELIGION"

The above words form the heading of a most striking editorial in the "Christian Century" of October 27. The writer protests against the recent news item that "thousands of Hungarian Jews have embraced Christianity." The editorial continues: "Perhaps some Christians rejoice at such a report. Perhaps there are quarters in which it is accounted evidence of the 'progress' of Christianity. But why not face the facts? Why not admit that, far from having 'embraced' Christianity, or even having identified themselves with Christian churches, these Jews—whose number is probably exaggerated—have been smashed into the Christian churches; have been so harrowed and tortured and damned by the treatment accorded them by the present government of Hungary, that they have sought political and economic refuge within the walls of the Christian churches? These thousands of Jews who have been driven into the Hungarian churches by the terrors of the Horthy despotism are, in truth, tragic witnesses to the failure of Christianity. Not one in a thousand of them has turned to Christ . . . . Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand have done nothing more than escape from the way of falsehood and death which is inflicted upon them." We congratulate the editors of the "Christian Century" for such a splendid and bold assertion of truth. The Church ought to Christianize Christians. Six hundred years ago Dante, in his "De Monarchia" called the attention of Christians to the failure of Christianity. Carlyle said, "Christianity is 1,800 years old and where is a Christian? Where is practical non-resistance? Where do Christians agree with their adversaries? Where do they strive to win by love instead of war? Where do they love the enemy and not hate him?" We Jews have always protested against the Christlessness of Christendom. When so-called Christians attempt to convert the Jew, such an act is indeed, "an outrage against God and religion."

TOLERANCE TAUGHT IN SCHOOL

A noble and magnificent work has been inaugurated in the public schools of Cleveland, racial and religious tolerance and fair play to all peoples and beliefs are being taught. The course is one of the subjects in the programme of the junior high schools. But it seems to us that the real course in tolerance ought to begin in the home. Parents in the home ought not to speak carelessly of other races and religions. If the little ones are brought up with a spirit of good will toward all races, creeds and religions, then there will be no need for courses in tolerance in the public school. With Hendrick Van Loon, we say, "The day will come when tolerance shall be the rule, when intolerance shall be a myth like the slaughter of innocent captives, the burning of widows, the blind worship of a printed page. It may take ten thousand years, it may take a hundred thousand. But it will come, and it will follow close upon the first true victory of which history shall have any record, the triumph of man over his own fear."

THE SCHWARZBARD TRIAL

The world will soon learn the horrible facts concerning the slaughter of Jews in the Ukraine during the years 1918-1920. We believe that the Hand of Judgment is merely using Sholom Schwarzbard as an instrument by which to reveal to the world that great tragedy in which hundreds of Jews have been put to death and massacred. We shall anxiously await the daily reports from the Paris court room. May justice triumph!

Lawrence Hart was elected secretary-treasurer of first year, faculty of law. Among the men on the junior rugby team are: Endrick, Rubin, Klein, Schaffer, Singer and Levine.

[illegible] of the National Council of Women, also spoke. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Hart Berstein, president of the Council of Jewish Women.

The complete establishment of community education in Quebec, and the building of more children's playgrounds [illegible] were two of the aims to which Mrs. J. Cosens indicated the need of work on the part of women's organizations. Within [illegible] Montreal is well furnished with playgrounds as the average city west a fraction of its size.

All women's clubs, whether they recognize it or not, have their origin in religious motives, stated Mrs. Caesar Block, in her address on "The Influence of Women in the Community." The principle of the Golden Rule had broken down narrow interests, and in modern life a woman could not, if she would, lead a secluded, solitary life. All phases of community activity are organized, and therefore women's organization in clubs is a natural factor in national life. Club endeavour for the general betterment of all the people is especially appropriate for Jewish women, the speaker continued, for charity and neighbourliness are essential parts of their religion.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. S. Sans. Mrs. Ezra Lozinsky sang, accompanied by Miss Mildred Silverman.

WEDDINGS

Rubinger—Levine

The marriage of Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Levine, 5161 Esplanade Avenue, to Harry Moe Rubinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rubinger, was solemnized at Victoria Hall, at 8 p.m., Tuesday, October 25, Rabbi Berger officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage be her father, wore a gown of white satin and lace with veil of Venetian lace arranged with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honour, Miss Jennie Abinovitch, wore a ruffled gown of orchid taffeta in period style with bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were: Misses Ethel Garfinkle, Sarah Friedlansky and Kate Lecker. Jack Rubinger was best man. Ushers were: Bill Grossman, Morris Williams, Harry Rasminsky. The two flower girls, Jennie and Mattie Levine, wore pale pink georgette and ribbon frocks and carried baskets of petals. The train-bearers, Ruth and Lily Richter, wore mauve frocks. Mrs. L. Levine, mother of the bride, wore black lace and velvet over a pink slip with a corsage of Columbia roses. Mrs. A. Rubinger, mother of the groom, wore black georgette with a side drape and a corsage of Premier roses. A dinner of 250 covers was served. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moe Rubinger left for New York and Atlantic City and will live in Montreal. Going away, the bride wore a fawn coat with Isabella fox and a beige dress.

Caplan—Nadler

The marriage of Miss Leah Nadler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nadler, to Ben Caplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Caplan, was solemnized Wednesday, October 26, at Beth Jehuda Synagogue, Rabbi Wilinsky officiating. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, I. Kugelmass, wore a gown of white georgette combined with taffeta petals and trimmed with French knots. Her veil of silk net was arranged in cap effect with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of roses, lilies and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Freda Nadler, sister of the bride, the maid-of-honour, wore a gown of green taffeta embroidered in gold tinsel, bouffant style, with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of Premier roses. Moe Nadler, brother of the bride, was best man. The bridesmaids were: Misses Stella Levy, white georgette trimmed with fringe; Elsie Laxer, yellow transparent velvet; Bessie Kugelmass, white georgette trimmed with French knots; Annie Grossman, pink georgette trimmed with rhinestones; Dora Laxer, rose-colour taffeta, bouffant style; and Fay Caplan, powder blue taffeta, bouffant style. All wore bandeaux and shoes to match their gowns and carried bouquets of Columbia roses. Mrs. A. Nadler, mother of the bride, wore navy blue satin trimmed with sequins, with a corsage of red roses. Mrs. S. Caplan, mother of the groom, wore black satin beaded gown and corsage of red roses. Mrs. G. Kugelmass, grandmother of the bride, wore a black satin beaded gown with a corsage of red roses. Mrs. I. Kugelmass, aunt of the bride, was in fawn colour georgette dress with corsage of roses. Mrs. S. Greenberg, sister of the groom, was in a rose-colour sequins gown with corsage of roses. Two hundred and fifty guests were received.

Flox—Lefkowitz

The marriage of Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Lefkowitz, to Jack Flox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Flox, of Los Angeles, took place at 4.30 p.m., Sunday, October 23, in Salon D of the Mount Royal Hotel. Dr. Abramowitz officiated, assisted by Rev. Wachtfogel and Cantor Katz. Decorations were in autumn leaves, yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and palms. During the benediction, the orchestra played "Song of Songs." The bride, who was given away by her father, wore rosewood satin draped in the front with a real lace bertha studded in rhinestones. She also wore a rosewood hat, rosewood satin slippers with rhinestone buckles and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Israel Levy, sister of the bride, who was her only attendant, was gowned in red canton appliqued in black transparent velvet with a red felt hat to match. She carried Columbia roses. Barney Lefkowitz, brother of the bride, was best man. Mrs. M. Lefkowitz, mother of the bride, wore a black satin gown with a rhine, stone ornament and corsage of red roses. Mrs. S. Flox, mother of the groom, was in black transparent velvet with a silver flower at the shoulder, and wore a corsage of red roses. Supper was served to 100 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Flox, who left on a motor trip to the coast, will stop off in Chicago, St. Louis and other points. Going away, the bride travelled in an olive green gown with a fawn camel's hair coat trimmed with squirrel, a fawn hat and shoes and a green bag. They will live in Los Angeles. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Flox, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Abe Zimmerman, of Peru, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Israel Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lefcort and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Lefcort, all of New York.

JEWS OF TANGIER GREETED ALFONSO ON YOM KIPPUR

The visit of the King and Queen of Spain to Tetuan yesterday coincided with the Day of Atonement, and a dilemma had arisen regarding the attitude to be adopted by the Jews of that town and the many Jews of Tangier who wished to go to Tetuan on the occasion of their majesties' visit, says a special cablegram to the New York Times this week.

The rabbis and chief Jewish authorities had studied the situation and announced the authorized Hebraic tradition that kings are bearers of good fortune, health, wealth and other blessings, and that therefore the severity of the Day of Atonement might be relaxed to the extent of bidding the King welcome as an anointed monarch. To fail to do so might entail misfortune, and therefore it is not only permissible, but advisable, that the Jews should welcome their majesties at Tetuan on Thursday, despite its being Yom Kippur.

LAND TAX REFORM IN PALESTINE

The dissatisfaction, frequently voiced, against the present system of land taxation in Palestine, which still follows the old Ottoman system, has caused the Palestine Government to institute a revision of the whole subject. Sir Ernest Dowson, the Commissioner of Lands, issued an official statement on the subject. The proposed reform is regarded as practical only with regard to the land used for orange groves, but all other land must wait for the completion of the land survey, on which Sir Ernest is now engaged. The administrative point of view is that it is better to delay reform of the tax on land used for orange groves until it is possible to introduce a complete reform of the system.

It will be remembered that this point was brought up at the recent Zionist Congress and the Government was criticized for the delay in this matter.

An agreement entered into between the Government of Palestine and that of Transjordania, Syria, Nejd and Hedjas provides that all agricultural products and livestock shall be mutually exempt from customs duties. Except in the case of tobacco, alcohol and spirits, there will be no custom barrier between these countries.

Octavus Cohen, father of Octavus Roy Cohen, short-story writer, died at his home in Charleston, S.C., on October 6, after an illness of several weeks. His age was sixty-nine. Mr. Cohen had been a journalist and a lawyer. As a young man he worked on several newspapers in New York State, and for a time was one of the editors of the American Press Association. In 1890 he founded "The Sunday Bulletin," in Charleston, making a feature of pictures. Later he edited The "Charleston World," but in 1906 he turned from journalism to law. He was born in Montgomery, Ala., and was educated in the schools of Charleston.

The editor of Israel's Messenger, of Shanghai, China, looks at this country from a good, long distance and deplores the low state into which Jewish journalism in America has fallen. He finds that editors have little to do now thanks to certain agencies. Rabbis are the contributing editors, there are syndicated columns of comments, and book reviews and news services which supply the world news in tabloid form to papers that want it. The foreigner finds the same editorials, reviews and news cooked up and served alike in all the English-Jewish papers on the exchange table. This makes him so weary that he calls upon Jewish editors and publishers to stop the tendency to standardization which causes the Jewish press to stagnate. It is a question whether the Jewish press is stagnating any more than it ever did, and whether standardization is the cause. It could be argued that this very standardization has made good papers out of ones which were formerly poor.

Time was when it was scissors or almost nothing as far as material beyond editorials was concerned. Papers paid little or nothing for what they used and they all lifted what they wanted from each other without a by-your-leave. A story could be called "The Abyss," starting out in a paper in London, England, and wind up three years later in Milwaukee, Wis., under the title "A Grandmother," some harassed editor having lost the original title on a day when he had to meet a note. As far as articles and stories are concerned it is still possible for an English-Jewish paper to clip one, run it, get credit for it from another paper and see it again (shortened by some soulless printer in South Africa) and, having forgotten its pristine glory, clip it once more and start the whole gruesome business all over again. Few subscribers ever see more than one Jewish paper and the editor runs no risk of his material being compared. This has made brigandage easy and the conscience of the robber about as vulnerable as a lead-pipe. Only a highly-commercialized editor or one who regards his writing tenderly in the light of a brain-child could bring himself to upbraid a brother who took that material and failed to give credit. Why, just recently the Jewish Advocate of Boston had an elegant editorial, a third of which was taken from the Chicago Sentinel, another third from a speech by Alfred Cohn, of the Bnai Brith lodge, and the other third from this very column. They looked grand all together like that, and although this column practises strict honesty it is perfectly willing to give while it lives and enjoy the result, especially when it is arranged in such impressive company. It is seldom that the Jewish editors ever have money enough to call a convention or visit each other. It is by their works chiefly that they know each other, and there is bound to be a feeling of cordiality and understanding between men who, at the last frantic moment on press day, can close their eyes, throw in two parts of Israel Zangwill's "Children of the Ghetto" to one part of a story by Sholem Aleichem and have them come out done to a turn, with very few people aware of the difference.

But, alas! times are changing. The grey day is coming when a man who uses a story or article and forgets to append the proper credit line will be seen walking with his head turned to see if any one is following. For now enter the feature and syndicate services, akin to those which make a daily paper in Des Moines almost exactly like the one in Rochester, and there is no rest for the wicked. It is not enough that the American Hebrew copyrights its stuff, and the Jewish Tribune gets upstage—but these agencies! Clip a story without giving them credit, even with the best of intentions, and they swoop down like buzzards, asking the too-popular question: "Where's that money you owe me?" But buy that syndicate's service and you can be all things to all men. For $2.50 a week from either of two English-Jewish news-distributing agencies there can be bought club combinations of book reviews, articles on Jewish conditions all over the world, interviews, columns, world news and an interpretation of it by recognized writers and observers. Some of it is piece-work done in east side New York sweat shops by sophomores, but just the same it can make any inland paper far from the Jewish schmoos centres look as intellectual as a kosher-restaurant radical, if it so desires, and expensive besides, while the social news column, the foundation stone of the home newspaper costs more than anything else in it. It cannot be standardized except in form. It must differ with every community. And if the rest of the paper looks just like the one in Seattle what difference does it make? The real trouble is not that the articles are the same the country over, but that too few of them are more than glanced at, the

Social Life in 1904—
Do You Remember?—

In Montreal Miss Bessie Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Morris, was married to A.J.J. Alexandor, at the home of the bride's parents, Mance Street. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white crepe de Chine over taffeta and a tulle veil caught with lilies-of-the-valley. Her bouquet was of white roses. Miss Bettie Hanaher, cousin of the bride, was maid of honour, and Misses Dorothy and Evelyn Morris, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Misses Beatrice and Rosalie Morris, sisters of the bride, were flower-girls. All the girl attendants wore white Swiss muslin and carried pink and white carnations. E. Jacobs was best man. After a family dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Alexandor left for Quebec and the lower St. Lawrence. Mrs. Clara Shulhof, wife of Richard Shulhof, died in childbirth. She was born in Bohemia and had lived in New York for twenty years. She belonged to Temple Emanu-El and was buried with the child in New York. Isaac Rozand died at the age of sixty-five, at his home, 494 St. Denis Street. He had lived in Montreal for forty years. After three years with Temple Emanu-El as rabbi, Isaac Landman returned to Hebrew Union College for further study. In leaving, he said that he had accomplished what he had through the kindness of his congregants. Miss Beatrice Abraham returned from a year's visit in New York, accompanied by Miss Clara Bernstein. A branch of the Jewish Theological Seminary was established in Montreal with Lazarus Cohen president, Hiram Levy, treasurer; and Rabbi Abramowitz, secretary. Marcus Bernstein, formerly of Montreal, son of A. Bernstein, was proprietor of a magazine in Chicago, published for American high school students. Mrs. Louis Sessenwein visited her parents in Chicago. Mrs. Herman Kaplan and family visited in Detroit. Mrs. M. Sessenwein and the Misses Sessenwein spent a few weeks at Mount Clemens. J. Udow, of Winnipeg, was in town en route to the St. Louis Fair. A. Cohen, J.P., was in town. I. D. Holofcener and A. Harris, of Ottawa, were in Montreal collecting for a new synagogue. Miss Ida Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schwartz, was married to Vivian S. Hart, son of Dr. David Hart, at whose home a reception was held. The marriage took place of Henry Levitt and Miss Miriam Aronson. About 250 guests sat down to a banquet.

A RESUME

Paris is now the center of interest of Jewry throughout the world. In the Court of Assizes of the Seine last week opened the trial against Sholom Schwartzbard, the French Jewish citizen, former Ukrainian, who, on May 25, 1926, approached Semion Petlura, Cossack Ataman, in Paris, and killed him in an act of vengeance for the murder of many thousands of Jews at the hands of Petlura bands.

The Schwartzbard trial has greater significance than the mere defense of one individual on trial for murder. The entire Jewish people is involved in this case because in the Paris court there will be placed on trial with Schwartzbard, not one but one hundred thousand murderers—the Petlurians, the fury of whose furies, during the years of 1917 to 1920, was the cause for fear and despair for Ukrainian Jewry.

"Make those dirty Jews drink the Dniester dry," was the order issued to his troops by Petlura, and the number of murdered Ukrainian Jews who died as a result of [illegible] is estimated to reach 200,000. [illegible] of the massacre of Jews in the Ukraine by Chmielnicki in 1648-1649 as cruelties the like of which the world has seldom witnessed. In less than two years in this horrible period of the seventeenth century, more than 300,000 were butchered by Chmielnicki. Less than 300 years later a Petlura arose to repeat butcheries the horror of which has left a blood stain on the soil and history of Ukrainia.

The extent of the Ukrainian cruelties by Petlura and his forces is described by Henri Barbusse, the French humanitarian, writing in the "American Hebrew," who declares that "Schwartzbard is not a murderer . . . if not in the eyes of the law, then in the conscience of mankind." M. Barbusse mentions Proskurov, Felshtin, Elisvetgrad, Zhitomir, Berditchev, Bar and fifty other towns and townlets in the Ukraine where massacres went on during the three years of Petlura's rule in the Ukraine, and where Petlura and his forces

"The inmates of a [illegible] were stripped naked and made to dance before they were slowly done to death. Parents were forced to look the blood of their children immolated before their eyes. Every kind of cruelty that a fiendish imagination could think of was then applied against these human beings whose sole crime consisted of belonging to a race which political considerations deemed expedient to destroy.

"It is almost ridiculous and certainly fallacious to cite any particular instance in these heaps of horrors. I will only mention that at Proskurov [illegible] day in 1919 from two till four o'clock in the afternoon—two Cossacks slew eighteen hundred victims, and badly wounded two thousand more—all with blank arms. In the family of Samuel Schwartzbard alone there were some thirty victims."

The Paris Jewish watchmaker, who distinguished himself during the war and was decorated by the Government of France, committed murder by firing the avenging bullet, but on trial should be placed not he alone but the hordes of blood-thirsty Ukrainians under Petlura who not only killed but drove men and women insane by their horrible acts. Schwartzbard himself, having lost thirty members of his family at the hands of the Petlurists, was driven to a state approaching agonizing insanity, and the young Jew's conscience was cleared when he avenged his people by assassinating the pogromist.

Paris synagogues expressed sympathy for Schwartzbard during the Succoth festival by conducting memorial meetings in remembrance of the hundreds of thousands of lives lost in the Ukraine. Paris Jewry also hoped for the emulation of this expression of sympathy by Jews throughout the world, but whether this was done or not, the case has assumed an aspect demanding such condemnation of these murderous crimes against our fellow-Jews as will for all time wipe out the possibility of their repitition. The Trial in the Court of Assizes is the opportunity for revealing to the world the outrages that were committed against our people. It is a great opportunity for shaming the anti-Semites, if that is at all possible.—("Detroit Jewish Herald.")

GIVES A YEAR OF HIS LIFE TO REPAY DEBT TO AMERICA

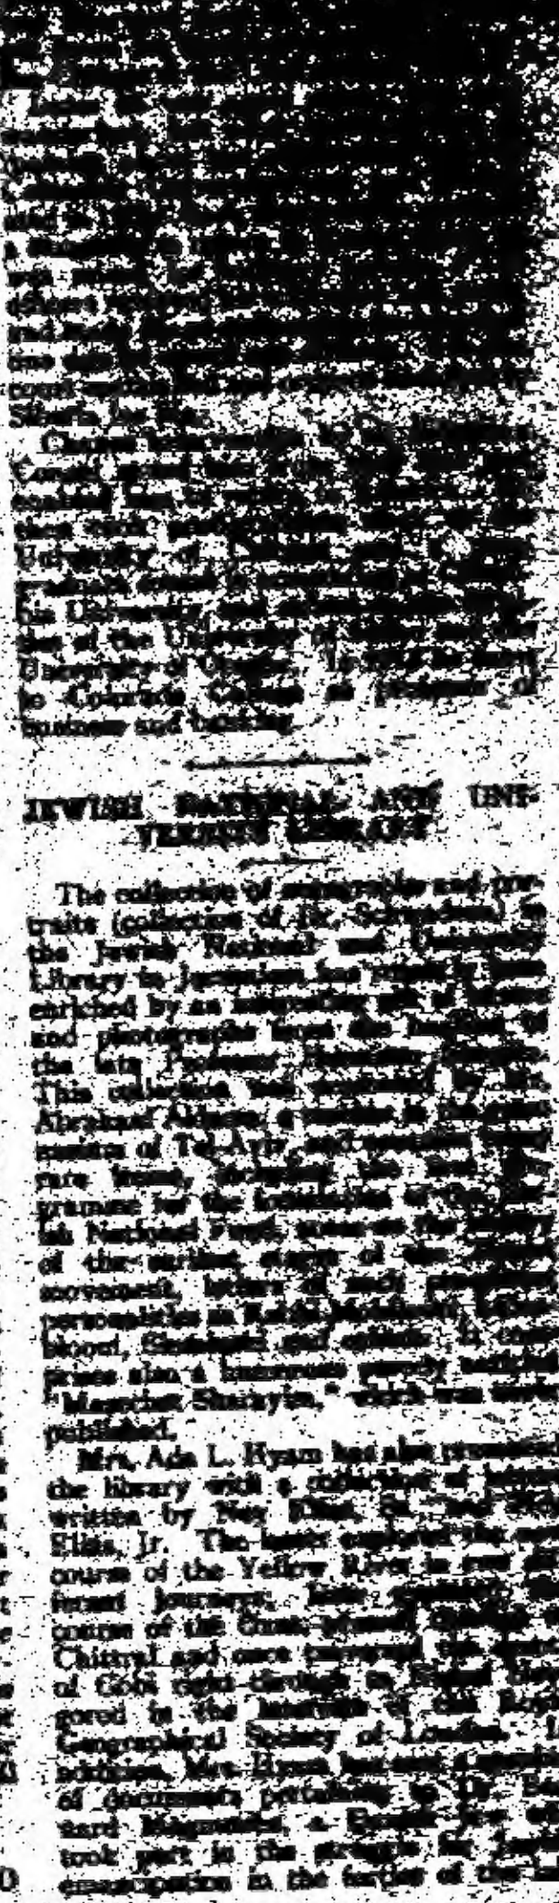
Desirous of repaying what he calls his debt to America, Dr. A. P. R. Drucker, Dean of the Department of Business Administration and Banking at Colorado College here, has gone to Mena, Ark., here for one year. He will give his services free as a member of the Faculty at the Commonwealth College there.

Commonwealth College was founded three years ago and offers education free of charge to students of any race or nationality who are willing to work a certain number of hours each week on the college farms, in the office and laboratories, or in other capacities. Members of the Faculty receive only board and room, such as is furnished free to the students.

Dr. Drucker believes he owes a debt to America, and that one of the best ways of showing his gratitude is to give a year of his time teaching others, so they may become worthy citizens.

Dr. Drucker's life story reads like a movie. He was born in a poor family far inland in Russia. When ten years of age, partly lured by wanderlust and partly driven by starvation, he left home. For two years he wandered about among the Russian villages, then returned home.

He arrived in New York City in October, 1891, and found work in a sweatshop, where he managed to earn eighty cents a day. After a time he took a small Bleecker Street, the [illegible]



JEWISH NATIONAL AND UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

The collection of manuscripts and portraits (collection of Dr. Schwadron) in the Jewish National and University Library in Jerusalem has recently been enriched by an interesting gift of letters and photographs from the heirs of the late Professor Joseph Klausner. This collection was presented by Mr. Abraham Alkow, a member of the Executive of Tel-Aviv and president of the Rare Books Society, and by Dr. Hermann Vogelstein, a member of the Jewish National Fund Council and one of the earliest Zionists in America. Among the correspondence in Dr. Klausner's collection are letters of well-known personalities in Jewish literature, history, Talmud, Zionism and politics. The gifts also include a manuscript entitled "Magazines Shatzyim," which was never published.

Mrs. Ada L. Hyam has also presented the library with a collection of letters written by Nov. Elias, Sr. and Nov. Elias, Jr. The latter explored the upper course of the Yellow River in east central Tarkestan. During the course of this journey he visited Chitral and once narrowly escaped death at Gilgit right through an attack made by Moslem fanatics. He was also gored in the knee by a wild yak. In addition, Mrs. Hyam has also presented a number of documents pertaining to Dr. Edward Magnussen, a British Jew who took part in the struggle for Jewish emancipation in the latter part of the last century.

Professor Sigmund Freud, the renowned scientist and pioneer in the field of psycho-analysis, has sent to the library the new edition of his works in ten volumes.

Dr. Julius Jarcho, of New York, has founded in the library a department of sports and athletics. Among the books forwarded by him are also many books on folk songs, folk dances and literature.

The committee of the library in Bucharest has sent about two hundred volumes, including many items of importance with regard to the history of the Jews in Roumania.

Mr. and Mrs. E. de Jolley of New York City, have sent to the library a splendid collection of about 1,000 books, pertaining particularly to anthropology and natural history. Included in this collection are a number of manuscripts and also many rare old volumes published in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries.

GERMAN POLICE ARREST ANTI-SEMITES

About 450 members of the Hitlerist National Socialist Party were placed under arrest by the Berlin police. They arrived on a special train from Nürnberg, where they had been taking part in a Hitlerist demonstration. During their journey they attacked many of the travellers, and it was feared that on their arrival in Berlin they might start anti-Semitic excesses in the streets. During their trial in the courts the song which they composed was made public. It begins with the words, "Kick them out, the Jewish band. Kick them out from our Fatherland."

WEDDINGS

Waldman—Levinter

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Levinter, 420 Palmerston Boulevard, the wedding took place Friday, October 21, at 4 o'clock, of their daughter, Rose, and Harry Joseph Waldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Waldman, Rabbi Jacob Gordon, officiating. Mrs. Isador Levinter played the wedding march. Autumn flowers, roses and palms were used as decorations throughout the house. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white beaded chiffon, with veil of tulle fashioned in a coronet of pearls and brilliants. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. Abe Cass was best man. The bride's mother wore a gown of black georgette and silver with corsage of roses. The groom's mother was gowned in navy blue georgette with corsage of roses. Dinner was served to the immediate family. The long table was centred with a large wedding cake and lighted tapers. Mr. and Mrs. H. Waldman left to spend their honeymoon in Quebec Province, the bride travelling in a gown of Neapolitan blue georgette, grey cloth coat trimmed with grey fox, and hat, shoes and stockings to match. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Bernstein, of Belleville, and Ben Yuffy, of Windsor.

Granatstein—Levy

Miss Alma Levy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Levy, 410 Jarvis Street, became the bride of Joseph Granatstein, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Frankel, 504 Jarvis Street. The house was a bower of autumn flowers and yellow roses. Miss Levy was attended by Misses Edna Frankel and Naomi Granatstein. Miss Frankel, as maid-of-honour, wore a rose taffeta frock. Miss Granatstein, as bridesmaid, was in rose colour in a lighter shade. Both carried bouquets of roses. Miss Levy entered on the arm of her father. She wore a gown of soft white lace. Her veil was of white tulle embroidered in threads of silver and caught together by clusters of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of pale pink rose buds and lilies-of-the-valley. The wedding table, adorned in autumn flowers, held a huge wedding cake which was placed in front of the couple. Sixty-five guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Granatstein left for a two months' journey. They will visit the Canadian Northwest, gradually making their way to California and returning via Chicago. The bride's travelling costume was a radium blue ensemble trimmed in fur. She wore a hat of the same shade. Mr. and Mrs. Granatstein will live at 215 Glen Road, Rosedale.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

GEORGE JESSEL AT ROYAL ALEXANDRA

George Jessel, twenty-nine-year old actor, who two years ago was in the depths, is now the star of his show, a play which in the space of two years, has made a huge fortune, "The Jazz Singer," which will play a week's engagement at the Royal Alexandra starting Monday evening, October 31. Having drifted about the vaudeville and musical comedy boards for eighteen years, tossing in restless confusion from theatre to theatre, from Broadway to the sticks, this young artist, whose expression of self has at last found expression in "The Jazz Singer," has at last tasted of success.

Three years ago Georgie Jessell was appearing as headliner in vaudeville. Off the stage there was a melancholy droop in his lips and his eyes were haunted. He moved restlessly from theatre to hotel and back again. He spoke vaguely of a play he was writing—"The Girl from Kelly's." The tour in vaudeville completed, George found himself back on Broadway just as he had started—still a vaudeville actor and with no definite plans. Money? He had never had much of it. Once he had invested all he had in a musical comedy and it had flopped.

A meeting of the Academic Council of the Hebrew University will be held in Berlin on November 13. Dr. Albert Einstein will preside at the meeting.

Dr. Kurt Lewin was appointed extraordinary professor of the faculty of philosophy of the Berlin University.

high in the medical world. He was a writer on literary subjects. He was a radical in economics in politics. He was an intense Jewish nationalist who loved Jewish folk lore and all folk creations. He was an authority on Jewish philology, and was the co-author with Yehoash of a book on Jewish philology. And chief of all he was a humanist who loved people. His life work in building up the Jewish sanatorium in Denver was marked by a kindliness and depth of sympathy with human suffering which have won for him a reciprocal affection in many wide circles of Jewish public life in America.

Dr. Spiwak represented the finest type of Jewish scholar. He was learned in Jewish as well as secular subjects, and his learning was a means of broadening his vision and elevating his character.

PRIMA DONNA

Sarah Fischer, Canadian prima donna, home on a vacation until December, when she returns to fulfill operatic engagements in Algiers and various European capitals, arrived on the "Empress of Scotland" at Quebec, Saturday, October 22, to visit her sister, Mrs. S. Shave, Marlowe Avenue. She will give several recitals. Sarah Fischer, a Montreal girl, is the only British subject to form part of the group that will sing at the Mozart festival in Paris next spring. She believes that many young singers become discouraged through the false belief that only born artists can succeed, and nothing can be more destructive to the hopes and aspirations of a singer, than such a misconception of genius. Dr. and Mrs. Lyon Bercovitch received in her honour Thursday, October 27, at Jacoby's Studios, Crescent Street.
